Bintan Island's dry season stretches from March to October, delivering sunny days, gentle seas and minimal rainfall. It offers the perfect conditions for beach time, water adventures and outdoor activities.

Malaysia's tropical climate brings year-round heat and humidity. The southwest monsoon runs May to September, and the northeast November to March. West coast green months are May to October, while the east coast sees them September to December. Travel after the green season to enjoy vibrant landscapes, cooler air, and bountiful waterfalls across the countryside.
